Summary

1. Three Beijing hospitals accept organ donation. They are Peking Union Medical College Hospital, Peking University First Hospital and Capital Medical University.
2. We offer registration for body donation with phone or other contact information.
3. If anyone wants to donate, he may call us, and we will instruct him how to contact the hospitals.
4. Normally we do not handle organ donation directly, and therefore are not familiar with relevant information.
5. The Shijingshan District Red Cross does not work on organ donation as it is not on our worklist. Maybe Beijing Municipal Red Cross was more knowledgeable about it, but they don't work on this normally, either.
6. Organ donation is still directly handled by hospitals.
7. We have a Hematopoietic Stem Cells (HSC) workstation on HSC-related work.

Telephone Investigation Recording

Red Cross officer: Hello.

Investigator: Hello. Are you Beijing, Beijing Municipal Shijingshan District Red Cross Organ Donation Office?

Red Cross officer: No, we are not. How about you write down that number and you call them later in the afternoon? OK?

Investigator: That's good. Please tell me.

Red Cross officer: You should call 68602798.

Investigator: 68602798. Is this number for Shijingshan Red Cross Organ Office?

Red Cross officer: The number you are calling now is an office line. What you just wrote down is the number for business department. You can call that number after 2pm when they go back to work. Is this OK with you?

Investigator: Oh, so the number I wrote down is for business department.

Red Cross officer: Yes. What you are calling now is an office line.

Investigator: Oh, office line. Then maybe you might also know something. I just want to learn about organ donation status in Shijingshan Red Cross. I mean at present.

Red Cross officer: Oh, are you in Beijing now?

Investigator: Oh, about me, I am calling now from Chengdu. I have a friend living in Fengtai (District) of Beijing. He wants to, he needs to replace his kidney. So he asked me to inquire about things on organ donation.

Red Cross officer: Oh, regarding organ donation, in all counties and urban areas of Beijing, there are three hospitals that accept organ donation.

Investigator: Which three hospitals?

Red cross officer: Three hospitals. There are three. How about you write down their phone numbers?

Investigator: Please.

Red Cross officer: One is Peking Union Medical College Hospital.

Investigator: Union Hospital.

Red Cross officer: The number is 6529.

Investigator: 6529.

Red Cross officer: followed by 6975.

Investigator: 6975. Good.

Red Cross officer: The second one is Peking University First Hospital.

Investigator: OK, Peking University Hospital.

Red Cross officer: 8280.

Investigator: OK, 8280.

Red Cross officer: then 2466.

Investigator: 2466, OK.

Red Cross officer: The third one is Capital Medical University.

Investigator: OK. Capital Medical University. Got it.

Red Cross officer: Their number is 8391.

Investigator: 8391.

Red Cross officer: then 1443.

Investigator: 1443.

Red Cross officer: These hospitals are the ones that accept body organ donation.

Investigator: Oh, my case is different. It's different. My friend's case is that he needs organ. His case is kidney failure and he needs to replace kidney, replace it. Kidney source, he is looking for kidney source. That is the case.

Red Cross officer: Oh, he is looking for that?

Investigator: Yes.

Red Cross officer: How about you call, for example, Peking Union Medical College Hospital. Then you ask them. Maybe they will provide you more precise information. Because our job is just to provide telephone registration and contact information for body donation.

Investigator: OK. But in your district, you are handling organ donation...

Red Cross officer: However, we normally don't do that, and we are not very familiar about that information.

Investigator: So you mean Shijingshan Red Cross Organ Donation Office is not really doing donation work in itself, right?

Red Cross officer: Yes, that's right. We don't do it. Red Cross does not do it. We don't do this job. Maybe Beijing Municipal Red Cross knows about this, but they normally don't do this job, either. This kind of job is supposed to be done by hospitals.

Investigator: Oh, So hospitals do it but you don't. So regarding organ stuff, talking about organ (source), hospitals still need to look for by themselves, right?

Red Cross officer: That's right. Hospitals offer (organ). We here only serve as a platform. For example, if someone wants to donate and calls us, we will tell him how to contact hospitals, like that.

Investigator: I see. When was your organ donation office founded?

Red Cross officer: Organ... We only have something which is a Hematopoietic Stem Cells workstation, about Hematopoietic Stem Cells. This is the case.

Investigator: OK, so you don't do organ donation by yourself. I got it. Thank you.

Red Cross officer: you can call (hospitals) to inquire.

Investigator: OK, I got it.

Red Cross officer: Sorry that I am not really helpful.

Investigator: Thanks a lot. Thank you.
