Phone Investigation Recording

Investigator: Hi, hello, transplant division?

Nurse: Hello?

Investigator: Is that the Armed Police Hospital? Is that the liver transplant (department) of the Armed Police Hospital? Hello!

Nurse: Oh, yeah.

Investigator: I am a doctor. I have a senior official, who wants to do a liver transplant in your hospital. He is in late stage of liver cirrhosis. Is that Shen Zhongyang still in your hospital right now?

Nurse: He is not, usually he is not in the hospital, and we don't know where he is.

Investigator: Oh, because our senior official said he wants him (Shen Zhongyang) to do it (for him). Have we started performing liver transplants yet, for this year?

Nurse: We do (liver transplantation) every day.

Investigator: Oh, you do it every day, then...

Nurse: This kind of surgery is performed every day, right.

Investigator: Oh, not by Shen Zhongyang, then other directors do it?

Nurse: Right.

Investigator: Oh, which director is that? Are his skills good?

Nurse: This, how can I explain to you? Investigator: Ha, Ha, Ha.

Nurse: Anyway, our liver transplants here... our wards all have liver transplant patients or kidney transplant patients.

Investigator: Oh, leave liver transplants aside. For kidney transplants, I know that Director Wang, and another Director called Liu Hang, who are doing them. That one...

Nurse: That's right, right.

Investigator: For liver transplants, I don't know which doctor is doing it. So my senior official said, “Can you find Shen Zhongyang, that director, to do it? Haven't you contacted him yet?”

Nurse: I don't know if he is doing liver or kidney transplants.

Investigator: He does liver transplants; he mainly does that.

Nurse: Oh, oh.

Investigator: Then, is there a doctor, a phone number in the doctors' office?

Nurse: There is a doctor-on-duty, who is a kidney doctor.

Investigator: Uh, what is the phone number, at which I can reach this doctor-on-duty?

Nurse: (extension) 76838.

Investigator: Oh, oh, thank you, thank you...

Nurse: No problem, no problem.
